Create your user folder

Activity · Getting Started · ~5 min

BEFORE YOU START

☐ You've completed Log in to the platform (you can see the main navigation tabs)

☐ You're inside your country's project

WHY IT MATTERS

The country project gets crowded fast. A dozen people saving charts and decks into a shared space without a system means nobody can find anything later. One folder per person is the simplest rule that works.

What you'll do

Create two personal folders — one in Slide Decks, one in Visualizations — to keep your work organized. Everything you save here will be tagged with your name so the team can see who built what.

1 Folder in the Slide Decks tab

1. Click the Slide Decks tab in the top navigation.
2. Switch the view to By folder (the toggle at the top — the other option is Flat list). You'll only see New folder when By folder is selected.

3. Click New folder.
4. Type your name (e.g., `Aïcha N.` or `John S.`).
5. Click Save.

You should see your new folder appear in the list. Click on it to open it — it's empty for now, but everything you create going forward can be saved here.

2 Folder in the Visualizations tab

Same idea, different tab — and the view toggle has four options here:

1. Click the Visualizations tab.
2. Switch the view to By folder (the toggle offers By module, By folder, By metric, and Flat list). New folder is only visible in By folder.
3. Click New folder.
4. Type your name (use the same name as in step 1 so your work is easy to find across tabs).
5. Click Save.

Checkpoint

You should now have:

- One folder with your name in Slide Decks
- One folder with the same name in Visualizations

Both folders are empty. That's fine — the next activities will fill them.

Naming conventions

> Use the same name in both tabs. Mismatched names (e.g., "Aïcha" in one, "A. Niang" in the other) makes it hard for the team to find your work later.

- Avoid generic names like "my folder" or "test" — your country teammates will create folders too, and "test" will overlap with others.
- Accents and spaces are fine in folder names.

What could go wrong

- "New folder" button doesn't appear — you're most likely in the wrong view. Switch the view toggle to By folder (not Flat list / By module / By metric). If it still doesn't appear, you may not have permission — ask your facilitator to check your role.
- Folder doesn't save — the network may have dropped. Refresh the page and try again. If the folder already exists with your name, it'll show in the list.
- You see other people's folders — that's expected. The whole country team works in the same project, so everyone's personal folders are visible. Yours is just one row in that list.

What's next

Setup complete. From here, you'll start running real analyses — the next module covers Creating visualizations.
