

Country action plan

Activity · Results Communication · ~30 min

BEFORE YOU START

- ☐ You've worked through the previous activities (user mapping, finding statements, linking to actions)
- ☐ You have the workshop output (chart, deck, brief) you produced this week available for reference
- ☐ Your country team is together — this activity benefits from multiple perspectives

WHY THIS MATTERS

The action plan you're building is meant to guide FASTR activities at country scale over the year ahead. The transition from workshop to everyday practice happens in the weeks that follow — the more specific the plan is now, the better it survives the routine.

The four dimensions

Work through these four dimensions as a country team. Answer the questions in writing — a colleague reading the plan should know exactly what's expected of whom.

1. Your use cases

How will you use FASTR analyses? Which key questions will you answer?

2. Finalising the report

Is the report you built during the workshop the one you want to use going forward? If not, how will you finalize it — and by when?

3. Ongoing updates and dissemination

Who uploads data to the platform? Who drafts the quarterly reports? Who disseminates them — through which existing forum?

4. Skill building

How will you practice — solo, as a group, in regular weekly meetings? Who else needs to understand this content and needs additional training?

Worked example: a Country B plan

Dimension	Country B's answer
1. Use cases	Quarterly DQA + service utilisation analysis. Quarterly disruption report presented at the RMNCAH-N TWG.
2. Finalising the report	Add a 2-page narrative summary to the workshop deck. Finalised by 15 July. Lead: Data Manager.
3. Ongoing updates and dissemination	Data Manager uploads monthly data. M&E unit drafts the quarterly report. Presented at the monthly Directorate meeting; shared with the State MoH.
4. Skill building	Weekly 1-hour FASTR clinic for the team. Train 2 more team members before Q3 (Country focal point).

Notice each row names a specific output, a specific person, and a specific cadence.

Peer review

Trade plans with another country team. Look for:

- Specificity — does every dimension name a real person (not a department) and a real cadence (not "ongoing")?
- Realism — does the plan over-commit to the first quarter? Could it survive the routine?
- The forum — is FASTR being plugged into a meeting that already exists, or a new one that has to be invented?

Support from facilitators

What support do you need from facilitators over the next quarter? Concrete asks beat vague ones. "We need help configuring the disruption module" is actionable. "We need help" is not.

What's next

This plan is the bridge between the workshop and everyday practice. Keep it visible, review it at the start of each quarter, update it as reality reveals what works.

Setup is done. The work begins now.
